

Developed Memories

by Jason de Koff

The sultry summer day gives way to evenings engulfed in great living lights, the only stars that matter.

The coolness in between toes and sheen of expended energy are highlighted by yellow windows and flowing moonglow.

Sparklers are released where day glo tips follow practiced penmanship while exclamation points are thrown in all directions.

Images captured in still frames of youthful delight, moments crystallized
in their own vintage splendor.

