

Rising signs and Saturn returns

by Sarah Brooks

The gravity of the universe should not be underestimated expanding exponentially has an intoxicating influence for the dance among planets circulating in elliptical exultation, a delight-years, or rather eons- in the making.

Intricate astral arrangements, some invisible to the naked eye, incite nothing shy
of amazement

gazing at galaxies brings to mind opulent celebrations redolent of incandescent nebulae curled amongst my hair a strand of planets, baubles encircle us playfully, like the constellations winking at the birth of each incarnation
